"Two years ago," said the aggrieved legislator, "I brought my wife with me to Topeka. She always likes to come to Topeka during the session and we decided to rent a room or two and take our meals out. When we arrived we found an old friend who had returned and brought his wife with him. So the four of us started in search of rooms. We found a mighty fine place about a block from the state house grounds and rented three rooms and a bath. That suite of rooms cost us $300 a month during the session. New York, Jan. 6.—Petrograd's announcement of the capture of a Turklish army corps in the Caucasus, accompanied by a revelation of the position held by the German-led Mussulmans, permits at last an understanding of the military situation in the southeast. Hitherto, Russia has concealed all news of the Caucasuan campaign. Presumably, the extensive penetration of the Turks into Russian territory made concealment advisable to prevent administrative uneasiness. Now that the success of the Mohammedans is offset in a measure by the disaster to one of their army corps, Petrograd raises the curtain on the southeastern operations.

The scene shows that the Turks have abandoned their first strategic objects.

The scene shows that the Turks have bandoned their first strategic objective, which was the capture of Batum. the strongly fortified Black sea oil port. Operations have been moved further south and the new objective, apparently, is Tiflis, the capital of the Caucasus,

Batum is 15 miles from the Turkish houndary, while Tiflis is 150 miles

Batum is in a better state of defense and its capture would have minor consequence compared with the occupation of Tiflis. The latter not only is the administrative seat of the Caucasus, but also is the only modern city throughout the province. Its seizure by the Turks would be comparable, on a minor scale, to the occupation of Paris by the Germans.

Turks would be comparable, on a minor scale, to the occupation of Paris by the Germans.

The Turks beemingly have been advancing on Tiflis in two columns. 50 miles apart. The northern column penetrated to Ardahan, 50 miles toward Tiflis, where, according to Petrograd, it is now nearly surrounded. The route of this column is through the mountains, over difficult highways far from any railroad. An interesting trio of old people who appeared on the witness stand in the second division of the district court yesterday afternoon were Mrs. Georgie K. Wilson, 80 years old, her brother, John Watts of, Springfield, Ill., and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Watts are considerably past 70, but all three impressed the court and spectators with their youth and keen understanding and interest in the proceedings, which involved title to a tract of land situated near Valencia in this county. from any railroad.

The second column had as its immediate objective Kars, also 50 miles inside the Russian boundary where a railway runs to Tiflis. This southern army, got only as far as Sarikamysh, 15 miles from the boundary. Here an army corps was surrounded. Petrograd reports, and the advance of the Turks was checked.

situated near Valencia in this county.

Mrs. Wilson, in full possession of her sight and hearing, participated in the proceedings with the placid composure of a woman used to affairs of business, and her presence in the court awakened recollections of the earlier days when her husband, the late Andrew Wilson, was one of the most conspicuous figures in Shawnee county. He at one time owned and operated a 2,200 acre cattle ranch in the northwestern part of the county and was prominent in business and political affairs of all sorts. He participated in a spectacular race for the legislature from the northern Shawnee district in 1876 when he was defeated for that office by Matt Campbell by a narrow margin. the Torks was checked.

The situation as a whole seems to be a minor duplication of the French campaign. The Turks penetrated the Caucasus, aiming at the capital, as the Germans rushed into France, with Paris as their objective. In the one case as in the other, the drive has been halted and the Turks are now at a standardill occupating about as grandardill. a standstill, occupying about as much Russian territory as the area held by the Germans in France.

Santa Fe Station.

Herman von Langen, a prominent Topeka publisher and at one time an officer of the Prussian army, died this morning at his home, 523 West Four teenth street. He was 85 years of age and is survived by his widow and his son, Leo von Langen, a proof reader for the Capital. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Mr. von Langen was born in Germany. He took up architecture as a profession and also rose to a high position in the Prussian army. At one time he was sent to Morocco to plan government buildings there. He left Germany in the sixties for political reasons and came to America.

He lived in Chicago for several years and was building inspector for that city during the Chicago fire in 1870. Shortly after the fire he came to Kansas, living in "arion and later in Emparis. In 1881 was Longen.

1870. Shortly after the fire he came to Kansas, living in Tarion and later in Emporia. In 1881 von Langen came to Topeka. He established the Kansas Telegraph, a German publication, in Emporia. He published that paper for twenty years in Topeka, having a print shop in the Office Block.

In his younger days von Langen was widely known as an architect. He drew the plans for the Santa Fe depot. Several years ago he was prominent in politics and organized the German league, a political society, during the Pop days. From 1897 to 1899 he was receiver for the United States land office.

of the state reform school for boys as a result of his operations leading up to his appearance at the Cheap Jack store with a wagonload of stolen household furniture. Huff was reported by the proprietor of the store yesterday and the goods identified. He insistently laid responsibility for the thefts upon his companion, Louis Nicholson, saying that he had merely "gone along."

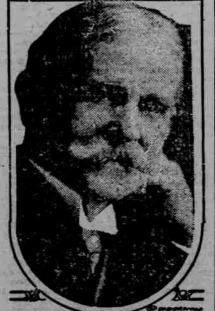

Judge MacFarland in the juvenile court after an investigation of the case, sentenced Huff to the reform school. The boy is a colored lad who has been in juvenile court before. Not long ago he was caught by Probation Officer Ed Rooney carrying a large caliber revolver, which was promptly confiscated. Nicholson, who has passed the age of 16, is held by the police on a charge of theft. The boys had offered for sale three stoves, a lawn mower, garden tools and hose which they had pilfered from various Topeka homes.

Very Fine Graduation Embroideries (See Window)

They came by express this morning-one of the best purchases made for the White Sale in the Embroidery Department. They were bought especially for graduation frocks, because of the fineness of the batiste foundation, and the exquisite daintiness of the embroidery which more closely resembles hand-work than any you ever saw at this price. Of course the first glance tells that these are much higher priced embroideries. Their untouched newness and freshness adds to their charm and value.
